

CANADIAN REPORT:

06/22/10 - **OPIS MORNING PREVIEW: EUROPEAN EQUITIES, CURRENCY WEAKNESS WEIGH ON CRUDE

NYMEX/GLOBEX PREVIEW . . .

Petroleum futures were trading lower this morning as were most commodities. Losses of just over $1 were being seen for crude oil this morning, while refined product futures are off a couple of pennies.

Most of the attention for crude oil has shifted to the August contract with July expiration imminent. The losses between the July and August contracts this morning are pretty similar with July down $1.17 to last trade at $76.65/bbl with the August contract down $1.11 at $77.50/bbl. Oil futures are dropping this morning with some European equities weakness along with a slumping Euro currency and a slightly stronger dollar. Front month Brent crude oil futures are down just over $1 at $77.73/bbl down $1.09.

The gains seen yesterday in the heating oil ring are being given back this morning as losses for the July contract are closing in on 3cts. July heating oil is currently down 2.73cts at $2.1186/gal. There is slightly more action in the August contract which was last seen printing at $2.1322/gal down 2.91cts.

The lightest losses this morning are in the RBOB ring which was the only contracts to realize losses yesterday. But losses in the rest of the complex are leading to the RBOB downdrafts this morning. July RBOB futures are down just over 2cts at $2.1223/gal. Like in heating oil there is slightly more action in the August contract which is down just under 2cts at $2.119/gal.

CASH MARKET OVERVIEW . . .

Traders of West Coast gasoline turned their attention to July barrels with Los Angeles CARBOB seeing premiums jump higher, with refiners seen in on the buy side in the spot market that took premiums to a high of 25cts over the futures market. Although there has not been much trading of late, San Francisco CARBOB still commands a couple of pennies premium to Los Angeles.

Some of the strongest conventional gasoline east of the Rockies is found in the mid-Continent markets. Refinery issues seem to be providing underlying support as Chicago gasoline is around a 4.25cts discount while the Group went out last night at a 4.75cts discount. Meanwhile on the Gulf Coast, prompt cycle 7.8lb gasoline was last seen at a 5.75cts discount, while 9lb material was last at an 11.35cts discount. The upside potential for gasoline in the Midwest is somewhat limited, should players in the Gulf start shipping barrels into the Mid-Continent region, sources say.
